

ABSTRACT

In one embodiment, software updates are applied to one or more client computers. The one or more client computers are assigned a level of service governing aspects of the application of the updates. The scheduling of the 5 application of the software updates is done according to the level of service. The application of the software update is then performed according to the schedule.

10